Assuming you have a $40,000 household income and a federal income tax bracket of 22%	With 403(b)	Without 403(b)

The above example is for illustrative purposes only and is not intended to represent the performance of any particular investment product or real investor. Your actual return and tax bracket aren't likely to be consistent from year to year, and there is no guarantee that a specific rate of return will be achieved. This example assumes the investor was in the 22% tax bracket based on $38,701 to $82,500 income for an individual filing a single return based on tax laws and regulations in effect January 1, 2018. Tax rates and brackets are subject to change. This information is not intended as tax advice. Consult your tax advisor about your particular situation. Withdrawals are taxed as ordinary income in the year received. Tax penalties and penalties for early withdrawal may apply if funds are withdrawn prior to age 59 ½.
